A NEW YEAR'S TRIP TO CANTON, 1902,

We arrive at Canton early this morning (1st January), our steamer being at the wharf when we awake. We find our way to the London Missionary Society's house, on Shamoen, where the Rev. W. W. and Mrs Clayson kindly put me up, the Rev. C. Dixon Cousins having invited me to share his room. After breakfast and family worship, I was present when my three hosts were having a little 'grind' at their Chinese language study. My powers of distinguishing some of the 'tones' were tested and pronounced 'fair,'-out of kindness, Iam afraid. A story was tolds of Missionary now resident in Hongkong, who was telling the nutives, in a sermon, about the pearly gates of heaven. He had the right sounds and tones, but reversed their orde:-the result being that they were given to believe that the gates were made of pork, which was no doubt very satisfactory to his congregation, as the Chinaman rivals the Trishman in his love for pork, dead or alive ! Mrs Clayson receives a good-sized hox from Home, which arrived and was opened in our presence. It included fancy articles of various kinds, Photographs, cakes, candies, nuts, and a pot of jam, the whole calculated to give great pleasure. The last-named, however, having fermented in the Red Sea, burst, spoiling all the other contents of the box. This was, needless to say, her first 'Christmas Box' out hero. and must have been a terrible disappointmont, though she acted bravely. We also call on Rev. H. J. Stevens, in the adjoining house, and there meet Miss Powell, who also arrived from Hongkong this n.m., the latter for the first time, having but newly arrived from the old country. During the morning, with Mr Ball and Mr Cousins, I visit :-1st. The L. M. S. Tsung Kwai San Kai Chapel. The roof having fallen in, remainsare in progress, and the place is not at present in use for purposes of worship. It has seating capacity for about 400. The Church Membership numbers about 100, and its adherents about 150 more. The people contribute $13 to the Native Preachor's monthly sa'ary of $20. Have ten with the Evangelist, Tso Yeo Yan Link, and Mr Ball translates a few encouraging words I address to him. Also visit School adjoining, which has, usually, an attendance of about 40, but, on account of the holiday, there are no classes. Moreover, four fine boys-Wai Ting Pau, Lai Chi Po. Chan Yui Wun and Long Chong Shu-happened to come in, and they accompany us all the morning, concluding with ton at Mrs Clayson's, which they were also much pleased at being asked to accompany us, and I determine to give them each a Bible. Seeing a San Francisco Lines' Map on the School-room wall, I offer to get them some of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co.'s issue, as being likely 2179 to impart a better dectrine, as it is from these they learn their geography. A fine view is had from the roof of the chapel, including the White Cloud Hills, great pawn shops, which rise above all ordinary buildings about them, the British and United States Consulates, &c. What strikes nic most up hero, Howover, are the steps worked into the slanting tile roofs, all towers, erected for the watchmen on the dookout for tires. 2nd. The Temple of the 500 Genii (or second circle of Buddha's disciples). This s one of the most famous temples in Canton, which is a 'City of Temples,' there being, Mr Ball thinks, about 150-not counting way-side shrines. The principal CEVERAL nowly-built 4 ROOMED feature of this one is the individual idols made of clay and gilded, of Buddha's 500 Chesp EUROPEAN FLATS in Wanchai Disciples (Second Circle), ranged up in row on either side of the various aisles. quite a display. The gentlemen whom they represent were either not as much noted for their good looks as for their piety, or the 'sculptor' has wrought them a great injustice. It has been claimed that out of these images was intended to represent Marco Pole, but this is discredited. Here a priest tries to 'squeeze' a contribution from Mr Ball, putting his hands on that gent leman to enforce it, but gets a surprise, as Mr Ball very auddenly exerts counter pressure, which sets the pious fellow

about, to enable the inmates of the houses

3rd. A second and very large Buddhist temple, known to foreigners as The Temple of Extended Longevity, was formerly more extended even than it is now,... GODOWNS at BOWRINGTON (Praya but a portion was destroyed by, an infuriated mob because of the immerality of the priests In all large Buddhist temples,.. there are generally two gigantic figures of gate-keepers in the outer purch, and, in the inner, another set of collosal images of the four great kings of heaven. In theinterior, also, are usually found the idols of the threa precious Buddhas, —past, present and future, and the 19 immediate disciples. At this templo, in answer to a request for money, Mr Ball told a priest that if he would give him a Tael he would give him a Tael he would give him a Dollar, which tickled the old follow immensely and for a moment he forgot the 'comeha.' 4th. We also visit a garden with ponds containing gold fish. It was an unattractive sort of place -- a poor specimen of its kind I was told. The pathel were all of bare earth. There was a fair collection of gold fish, however, and a round correctagonal doorway, I've forgotten which, through which we pass, 33th. In doing the above, and afterwards, we walk a great deal through the streets of the western suburbs. I was much impressed with the narrowness of the strects—six, eight and ten feet wide—as wide, in fact, as a fair-sized side-walk in a Canadian City. There are no a do-walks here, but the streets are well paved with granite slabs. While going through some of the narrowest and crookedest of these streets, Mr. Consins repeats for Mr Ball's benefit (he having been born in Canton): Breathes there the man, with soul so-Who never to himself hath said,

This is my own, my native land ! Whose heart hath ne'er within him barned. As home his footsteps he hath turned From wandering on a foreign strand? &c. Mr Ball was much smused at the idea. not appearing to take it seriously, but then, they say, all 'Uhinamen' are void of real patriotic feeling. In passing an open doorway, we catch a glimpse of a woman in fancy-coloured garments busily bowing before some erectionwe didnot make out what - but, as all the other people about seemed to be in holiday dress and humour, Mr Ball thought that it must be a wedding, and that the bride was worshipping the bride groom's ancestors.

I also see a man undergoing the 'wooden collar' (or cangue) punishment, so often seen in pictures of travel in China. He was huddled on his haunches close against the side of one of those awfully narrow streets. and a very busy one at that, with his face turned away from the public, an object of shame and utter misery. Inside the collar, as well, there was an iron chain of some weight. It certainly was not intended to break the weight of the heavy collar on his neck, as it may truly be said that the tender mercies of the Chinese are cruel. Unless his friends, or some one kindly disposed, helped him to food and refreshment, the poor wiet h must have died, as the collar was so big as to prevent his hand from reaching his mouth. As an introduction of the last few years, Mr Hall directed attention to some goodsized warehouses with large stocks of American flour. 6th. In the harbour I observed ;- 4 or 5 French gunboats (with flags that could be read a remarkably long way off) but no French merchantman; 1 German gunboat -1 merchantman; U. S. S. (monitor) Monadnock-no merchantmen; I British gunbout (Redplote), 7 or 8 merchantmen.

7th. Had a walk all the way round Shameen-the British and French sottlements --where practically all the foreigners, not counting missionaries, around Canton, live and do business. It is built on a reclaimed mud flat, with a fairly wide canal constructed to separate it from the Chinese City, and bridges at either end, which are intended to be destroyed in case of trouble-at least they can be commanded by gunboats lying off in the River. These bridges are guarded by Chi-Bose soldiers, and not every Chinaman who wants to is allowed to cross. The masonry embankments surrounding Sha-meen are solid and good. It is just about 11 mile round them, taking 18 minutes smart walking to cover the distance. The place is nicely laid out, and has many fine

In the riots at Canton in 1883, Shaincen was invaded by the Chinese mob, and sixteen houses and the Concordia Theatre were burned, the British Consulate vacated and the flag hauled down—the Consul going aboard one of the ships in the stream. British residents, missionaries and all, were organized for defence, and the women and children seat away to Hongkong. Mr. T. Clark recalls seeing Mr. Pearce with a musket on his shoulder—though it was hinted that he had been drilled as to which from himself. Mrs Pearce and her infant son had been sent down in the s.s. Kinng. Chow to Hongkong. As the telegraph em the first news of the disorders from the British Consui to the Commodore at Hongkong, and his requisition for help. She was caught in, and delayed, by a severe ty-phoon. When she arrived, however, two gunboats, which had been under steam overnight doing battle with the weather, were immediately despatched. One of the rioters was shot on the threshold of Mr Pearce's house, and another in the back

On the Shamcen, we meet a party of French men-of-war's men out on leave. None of the British Jack Tars were allowed off to-day, because, at Christmas, there had been a collision between them and the 'Froggies;' and one of the British had been *knifed and was still in hospital. It inched, and had had that 'tender honour of theirs rubbed up somewhat, by a French civilian shouting 'Fashoda,' and after the wounding above-mentioned, the 'Jackies' piled in, and gave an exhibition of what their predecessors did to the Frenchmen and their Allies in the good old days of Nelson, and the school of heroes he represented, including Mr 'Fashoda' in the drubbing. It is reported that this gentle-man has made a claim on the British Consul for damages.

THE RAVAGES OF WAR.

Of war's ravages dwollers in South Africa knew too much, but fortunately not all. There surely is nothing more depressing than the spectacle of burnt and looted villages and farms, vineyards and fruitful fields wasted and spoiled, with here and there rusted and abandoned machinery. Of all these horrors this continent can furnish examples enough and to spare; yet when compared with the desolution which marked the track of the invading army through highly-cultivated and populous France in 1870-71, there is scarce a sign of damage in the theatre of the late war. The war waged by discuse against man is 'in many respects like the war waged by man against man. Its most important difference is that it knows no peace, but fights coaselessly until it slays or is slain. It knows nothing either of armistics or compromise.

There could surely be no greater torture than to slowly starve to death in the midst of plenty, writes Mr. J. Kelly, of Dobson Street, Port Elizabeth, S.A., on March 12, 1902; yet that was the fate which once stared me in the face. For thirteen years I was afflicted with tapeworm, and from being a strong and healthy man declined to a state of weakness and emacintion. I derived little or no nourishment from food and my consequent lassitude rendered me quite unfit for my ordinary daily work. I was living at Durban at the time, and the doctor who had charge of my case there tried several methods to free ma of my trouble, but was powerless to effect that which Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup afterwards so speedily accomplished. On several occasions I was made to abstain from solid food for as long as tive consecutive days, and for months at a time I lived without requiring the aid of a knife and fork. One mixture, which my ductor gave me as a last resore, I took for four moaths, and at the end of that time was us bad as over. Loffen think of all that I suffered during those years, and wonder how I endured it; but the bitterest part is to know, as I do now, that the misery was quite unnecessary. Having met with a pamphlet which described how others who had suffered from the same complaint had been cared by Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup, I at once perceived that the treatment to which I had submitted was entirely wrong. I resolved to take a course of it, and my resolution was rewarded with complete success. Unlike the inaffectual attempts to starve or poison the cause of my trouble, Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup gave power to the stomach to perform its natural functions, and by removing all impurities from the system completely freed me of my torment. It took only six bottles to produce this grand result.' Mrs. Jane Edworthy, of Lobson Street, Port Elizabeth, S.A., described on February 28, 1902, the relief she had experienced from a totally different malady by employing the same means as had restored Mr. Kelly to health. 1 enffered, says Mrs. Edworthy, from general weakness and a dreadful-down sensation. Fearful headaches, reduced me to such a state of workness that at last I was unable to do little things for myself, and I was much troubled by a sharp pain between the shoulders. Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup having been recommended to me; I was induced to buy a bottle, and experienced so much benefit from it that bought two others. These three hottes com-

The Siamese Yacht.

Last night, Mr H. N. Mody, the Siamese Consul, entertained the officers the Royal Siamese yacht Mohn Chukrikri at dinner at his residence, Buxey Lodge. The distinguished party included His Excellency Phys Visuth, the Commander and officers, and a few Hongkong residents. Mr Mody proposed the healths of His Majesty the King and the Crown Prince, which were enthusiastically responded to. The band of the Yacht was kindly lent for the occasion, and an excellent musical programme was provided. We understand that the Stewards of St. Andrew's Ball have extended an invitation to the officers of the Yacht to attend the ball to-night, and they will be escorted there by the Siamese Consul.

We sometimes grumble and growl at feeling the drain, which is attributed to the the 'phone-when its tinkling bell goes to, or when the transmitter will not speak when we do. Then, indeed, is the 'phone nuisance; but sometimes it can be boon and a blessing. When the shades of evening were falling on Kup Po in the Sha Tau Kok district, three freelmoters thought it was a good time to steal the portable property of a native. They entered the house, brandishing pistol and dagger, and stole money, clothing, and other articles. Then they made off towards Hongkong, but they did not get there in the manner which they intended. The villages in the vicinity are suffering Terrible Disaster at Shanghai.

On Monday, the 17th inst, (says the Mercury), the high spring tides running during the afternoon, caused one of those disasters, which after they have happened, cause wonder that more do not occur. One of the junks anchored just above the foreign sottlement in mid-stream broke adrift from her anchor, assisted probably by the strain caused by two or three other boats being made fast to her, instead of anchoring themselves. These boats drifted rapidly up river and fouled other junks tied up there, with the result that a very great number of boats were soon irretrievably mixed up and floating about. The Police on the Chinese bund report that 48 native craft were sunk in the trouble, while between forty and fifty persons are reported as missing. Already some twenty bodies of victims have been recovered, and the loss of life must have been very great. The quartermaster on the gangway of one of the foreign men-of-war anchored in the neighbourhood, reported counting twentytwo bodies floating past the ship during one watch. Though the matter did not reach the notice of foreigners here for several days after it happened, this must be reckoned as one of the greatest disasters which has taken place on the river here for a long

Sculling Championship of Shanghai

The N.-C. Daily News of the 24th inst says :- There is always a great deal of interest shown in the contest for the Sculling Championship of Shangand the meeting of Dr Denhard and Mr J. D. Smedley on Saturday afternoou attracted a good number of spectators, although there was such a diversity of attraction in the way of sport on the Re-Recreation Ground. The day was not altogether an ideal one for a sculling match, being dark, cold, and windy, but the water was fairly smooth, and the course, a mile and a half in length, between Melchers' Tungkadoo Wharf and the Kiangman Arsenal, pretty well clear of punks. In fact this course is the best on the river, and hope that next autumn a change of venue will be made for the Regatta Mr A. L. Anderson acted as starter, and Mr R. Roosen was the judge. Smedley led, but despite the fact that he did not lessen the quickness of his stroke, he was not doing the same amount of work as at first Donhard who was not at all pushed, drew level with Smedley, and for a short time the two boats were together. Then Denhard, increasing the speed of his stroke ever so little, left Smedlev in the rear. He afterwards resumed the same long, powerful stroke which he adopted at the commencement of the race, and Smedley was never again in it. Denherd won in 7 ms sees. Smooley being 16 sees, behind. I hear, writes 'Stretcher, that Dr Denhard will visit Hongkong in order to scull against Mr Kochler, who won the Shanghai Championship from Mr Smelley last year. The disadvantages sculling, especially in a race, in the crowded waterways of Hongkong, are pretty apparent to the most casual observer but, given 'ting-a-ling, ling' when we do not want it good luck, Denhard ought to beat Koehler without much difficulty. If Koehler wins it will be because of the better start he will undoubtedly obtain and his ability tolkeop it, He is strong, good-plucked, and younger by many years than his opponent. But Denhard has nover had occusion to spurt in a race on this river, and while he beat Smedley by 16 seconds, easily, Koehlar, rowing his hardest, only came in las

( CHINA MAIL BERCIAL BERVICE.) THE 'CHINGTU' CASE.

THE ACCUSED ENGINEERS ACQUITTED.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) . SYDNEY, November 27.

The accused engineers in the Chingtu case have been acquitted.

The above message refers to the case which Archibald Kerr, chief engineer, and Charles Pongelly, second ongineer, of the China Navigation steamer Chingtu, were charged with having, on or about July 1, 1902, on the high seas, on board the s.s. Chingtu, murdered a Chinaman named In Hung. According to the evidence of Captain Williams (since dead), the steamer left Hongkong on 30th June, next day a man was reported missing, and the fact was logged on 6th July. He did not believe that either of the accused had anything to do with the missing man. The allegation of the Chinese Gremen was that the chiefengineer took the man by the shoulders while the second engineer took him by the feet and threw him overboard. This was alleged to have happened at 9,30, a.m., when there were, usually, European passengers about, and the second engineer was in his cabin writing up his log. It was obvious, of course, that the whole story was a malicious concection on the part of the Chinese firemen, who, just now, are giving so much trouble in most of the steamers trading out of Hongkong. Much sympathy for Messrs Kerr and Pengelly was felt by all who knew them in Hongkong and on the China coast, for while it was certain that the prosecution (even though it was bolstered up and financed by rich Chinese in Sydney) must fail, it was a serious and unpleasant position to be placed in, to defend onesel against a charge of murder, supported by the evidence lof a gang of Chineso. It is to be hoped the Court punished the accusers.-ED., C.M.] SHANGHAI.

With regard to the second part, though the permanent works cannot be sufficiently advancod to be available by the winter of next year, it is anticipated that a supply of about 100 million gallons will be obtained by

The following Bills were read a first time on the motion of the Attorney-General, seconded by the Colonial Secretary:-A Bill to amend The Widows and Orphans' Pension Fund Amendment. Sir H. Berkeley in moving the second reading of the Employers and Servants Bill, said it would be found to provide the servant with a summary mode of enforcing payment of his salary, and at the same time provide the master with a means of enforcing efficient work out of the servant. It was felt generally, and the Government were indirectly asked to consider whether the time had not arrived when the provisions of the laws in force in other parts of the world should be brought into force and that persons of that class generally known as servants should be summarily dealt with, for breaches of the character described, by the Magistrate. The second reading was agreed to, and the

ADVANCED A STACE. The New Territories Bill was referred to the Law Committee, and the Naturalisation of Aliens Bill was left in Committee of the whole Council. THE POBLIC HEALTH. Sir Henry Berkeley, in moving the second reading of the Public Health and Buildings Ordinance, which was read a first time at last meeting of the Council, said; The subject matter of this Bill has been before the public for such a very long time that it is hardly neccessary for me to say anything at all in asking the Council to read it for the second time; and the principle which is irvolved in the Bill, namely, mprovement of the sanitary condition of the Colony, is one which oust so obviously commend itself to the Council that again, it is hardly necessary for me to say anything in introducing the Bill. Still it is of such importance to the public generally, and fraught with such advantages if it is passed in the shape in which it is now presented before the Council, that I think it will be interesting, and I am sure instructive, if I give a short history of the reasons which have led the Government to get the Bill presented here now in the shape in which it is, As long ago as 1896, the sanitary condition of the town having before that attracted very sprious attention, on account of the ravages of the plague in years previous and also that year-in 1896 Governor Sir Wm. Robinson appointed a Commission. to enquire into, and report upon, the insanitary condition of properties in Hongkong, how such insanitary conditions might be improved, and by whom such improvements should be carried out; that is to say, at whose cost the improvements should he effected.
